CHRISTMAS GREETINGS To One and All

Golden Wedding Of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Fisher Observed

A beautiful and long to be remembered Anniversary was celebrated Monday afternoon and evening, when sixty of the children and grandchildren, and a number of invited guests, met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Brewerton, to commemorate the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Fisher, old-timers of the town and among its highly respected citizens.

With about 35 of the immediate family present, a sumptuous turkey and chicken supper, with all the good things that go with it was served, and every one did full justice to this repast.

The evening was spent in games, conversation and the old-timers received a great deal of pleasure from relating anecdotes and happenings of the early days of Raymond.

The invited guests presented the guests of honor with two lovely upholstered chairs, with the wish that they would spend many happy years by their fireside in these chairs. The immediate family made a presentation of a gold box full of money, with the suggestion and request that the honored guests use part of this for an extended visit with children and relatives in Utah and other States, which visit they have been putting off for a long time.

The Anniversary was enjoyable in every way and will long be remembered by all who were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Fisher are both in good health and carry their age exceptionally well. They have been highly respected in the community and received hundreds of congratulations on the 50th wedding anniversary. Years ago Mr. Fisher filled a mission in New Zealand, and he receives a great deal of joy relating some of the marvelous faith promoting experiences of that mission. They have a large and respected posterity, and with them we join in wishing the honored couple many more years of marital happiness and bliss.

News Notes

Do not miss "PEG OF MY HEART," on Xmas night playing at the Capitol.

Are your New Years resolutions already for framing. If covered them with glass may we would keep them longer.

A $35,000 fire in Coalhurst Thursday levelled four business houses in the heart of the city. The Lethbridge fire brigade assisted and prevented further loss.

We don't know of any more suitable phrase, so we will just wish you all "A Merry Christmas and a Happy and a More Prosperous New Year."

Be sure and see "MRS. WIGGS OF THE CABBAGE PATCH," playing Friday and Saturday Dec. 28th and 29th at the Capitol.

The permit for the new bar-rack in Calgary has been issued at a cost of $163,516 and work is expected to continue all winter. Present weather is very favorable.

Like a beacon in a storm, home beckons the absent one at this time of year, and many will come here for their holidays, and many others will spend the day with parents and relatives in other towns.

W. H. Steed has taken over the Groceries at the premises next the King Motor and is operating now. Mr. Steed is an old and experienced storekeeper and certainly give people the service in his line.

There are so many things going on here all the time it sure is a hard job to get a hand going. Efforts are still being made to get our Legion band going, and if you know of any one interested, practices a e held Monday night at 8 p.m. in the Town Hall. Help us out.

"BONNE AMIE" CLUB

Mrs. R. W. Tollestrup entertained at a dinner on "men's night" of the "Bonne Amie" Club. Covers were all for 18.

A very attractive programme of entertaining and fun was enjoyed and the fun was reliving. Four tables of bridge were in play, honore going to Mrs. Wm. Jackson and R. W. Tollestrup, and consolation to Mrs. Jack Simpson and C. O. Nelder. Several excellent piano solos were rendered by the hostess and community singing brought to a close a very happy evening.

Late News From The Oil Well

Friday morning the drill at the Franco Oils was down 1,580 feet drilling a very favorable formation and going down quite rapidly.

Several light flows of gas have been encountered during the past ten days, and Wednesday and Thursday slight showings of oil were encountered.

The well is following Dr. Hintpe's logging very closely, and the directors and men at the well are very enthusiastic about the prospect and the showings to date.

Sam Kesler has been very ill with pneumonia and is still a very sick man.

Wednesday, Dec. 26th, will be observed by business places in Raymond as a holiday. Shoppers will govern themselves according.

Magistrate Low was here Tuesday ironing out the difficulties between a few local people.

Be sure and see "MRS. WIGGS OF THE CABBAGE PATCH," playing Friday and Saturday Dec. 28th and 29th at the Capitol.

BIRTH NIGHT

These few lines from James Russell Lowell tell a very beautiful story very briefly. They also point out another truth some of us are apt to forget.

"What means this glory found our feet,"
The Magi mused, "More bright than morn,"
And voices—chantered clear and sweet,
"Today the Prince of Peace is born."

"What means that star," the shepherd said,
"That brightens through the rocky glen?"
And angels answering overhead
Sang, "Peace on earth, good will to men."

And they who do their souls no wrong,
But keep at eve the faith of morn,
Shall daily hear the angels' song,
"Today the Prince of Peace is born."

THE EVE OF CHRISTMAS

The time draws near the birth of Christ;
The moon is hid; the night is still,
The Christmas bells from hill to hill
Answer each other in the mist.

Four voices of four hamlets round,
From far and near, on mead and moor,
Swell out and fall as if a door
Were shut between me and the sound.

Each voice four changes on the wind,
That now dilate and now decrease,
Peace and goodwill, goodwill and peace,
Peace and goodwill to all mankind.

—Tennyson.

Enthusiastic Convention Held At Warner

Splendid Christmas Program

Hats off to the students and teachers of the Public School. They put over a two hour Xmas program that was interesting from start to finish, and showed a great deal of work and effort in its preparation.

To detail the program, and name all who took part in it, would require a special addition. Suffice it to say that all grades were represented in the various numbers, and each one was very good. Christmas recitations, songs, dialogues and plays, all were presented, reflecting the true spirit of Christmas and also some of the opposite ideas held. A tableau of the birth of the Savior with carol singing in the wings, was very effective, and brought home the Christmas story very nicely.

All in all Principal Hicken and his staff are to be complimented on the excellence of the program presented and the good crowd present showed interest and appreciation for what the kiddies are doing.

LADIES LITERARY MEETING

The Ladies Literary held their meeting at the home of Valeria Allen, assisting hostess Mae Tollestrup. Mrs. Snow presided. She presented the prospectus of a shelf of books, "Lands and Peoples" and suggested that the two libraries and the Raymond Public Library buy them. Moved by Viola Wing and seconded by Norma Wood that these be purchased.

Mrs. Wing gave a comprehensive review of the History and Geography of Persia, which in this case included the art and literature.

Mrs. Julia Asplund read the "Rubaiyat" by Omar Khayyam, also some selections from Hafiz who is the Shakespeare of Persia.

Mrs. Amy Allen gave a Persian short story.

The visiting guest were Mrs. Goodrich, mother of Mrs. Zaida Taylor, Mrs. Florell Palmer, Mrs. Opal Wiggill, Mrs. Thelma McVill, Mrs. Lavern Anderson, Mrs. G. A. Telford and Mrs. L. A. Nelder.

Mrs. Snow was given a vote of thanks and goodwill, as it was the last meeting before the new president takes charge.

John Hyde is making satisfactory progress after a very serious attack of pneumonia. He is convalescing now at home.

A nice shoot was killed Tuesday near the elevators in a collision with a beet truck. Pig one minute pork the next was the story here.

Characterized by many as the best enthusiastic Liberal Convention ever held in the Warner Constituency, the one last Saturday was a success in every way, and the business of the occasion was transacted with despatch.

F. S. Leffingwell, Constituency organizer, and past Liberal M. L. A. occupied the chair until the election of officers for the coming year, when J. A. Brownlee was made president, and he took the chair.

The complete list of officers is as follows:

Hon. Presidents—Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, W. R. Lawson, Provincial Liberal Leader, and Senator W. A. Buchanan.

President—John A. Brownlee, Foremost.

Vice-Presidents—J. H. Blackmore, Raymond; E. S. Beattie, Foremost.

Sec.-Treas.—L. D. Whitney, Foremost.

Executive—L. B. Duncan, New Dayton; John Jefferson, Coutts; D. Powelson, Ray; J. H. Arnold, Milk River; E. N. Peterson, Stirling and Mrs. Riley of Coutts.

The Committee on Credentials examined the sheet, and seated 31 delegates, representing 27 of the 31 polls in the Constituency.

Nominations were Roi Risinger, New Dayton; Jos. Brandley, Stirling and F. S. Leffingwell, Milk River, who carried the Convention on the first ballot, and was given a rousing ovation when he spoke.

Other speakers were; Senator Buchanan, S. J. Shepherd, L. E. Fairbairn, Mayor Barrowman, all of Lethbridge, L. L. Pack, Raymond and Mrs. L. B. Duncan of New Dayton. Questions of the day and the proposals of Liberalism to deal with them were the topics of the various speakers.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Jones and family have received a radio-gram from Hawaii, by way of the Amateur Radio League, from their niece who was formerly Miss Doris Phillips Cardston. Bob Reagh, Lethbridge picked up the message, and we understand Harry is despatching a reply over the same route.

BRIGHTEST CHRISTMAS IN FIVE YEARS SEEN FOR WESTERN CANADA

The brightest Christmas in five years of depression appears a certainty for Western Canada. Business, while not booming, showed a great improvement over the last Yuletide season.

From the Pacific coast to the eastern borders of Manitoba buyers flocked to the stores to make their Xmas purchases in greater numbers than at any time in the past five years. All lines of trade showed distinct improvement.

MERRY CHRISTMAS

They must have had weather similar to our's nearly two thousand years ago when on the plains of Judea the shepherds were startled and made very happy when they received the following visit and declaration:

"And there were in the same country, shepherds abiding in the fields, keeping watch over their flock by night."

And lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them, and they were sore afraid.

And the angel said unto them: Fear not: for behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people.

For unto you is born this day, in the city of David a Saviour which is Christ the Lord.

And this shall be a sign unto you: Ye shall find the child wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger.

And suddenly there was with the angels a multitude of heavenly hosts praising God, and saying:

Glory to God in the highest and on earth, peace, good will toward men."

The shepherds had but one desire following this visitation, viz., to see the Stranger and present their gifts. This wise man came to them in the sky and said: "Follow me, and ye shall see all these things which I have told you."

myrrh, and other costly and precious Gifts, and laid them at the shrine of holiness in the manger at Bethlehem.

Christmas has come and gone. Customs and habits have changed. Men have become worshippers of gold instead of worshippers of God, yet in all these changes the Xmas spirit has remained, strong, virile and beautiful after all these centuries. Was the mission of the Babe of Bethlehem in vain.

Many people have ceased to believe in the story of His Humble birth, and many have ceased to worship at His shrine. And yet, many of these same people are the ones who really do the greatest amount of good at Christmas time in bringing joy to the down trodden and the unfortunate.

Again, many could not tell you where the quotation at the beginning of this column is taken from, and in cases it has been years since they sat in a house of worship and absorbed the spirit of His holy gospel, and yet these same men and women go out Christmas time and coal bins are replenished, turkeys and Christmas hampers find their way to tables of many families, and without the customary from so and so, merely from a friend. This is the Christmas spirit.

In our own association, we give and give until it hurts. Our purses each Xmas time look up to let the kiddies cross, and like an elephant has stepped on them and for months afterwards in many cases we are busy trying to pay up Xmas bills. True we get it all back and generally more, and still at the same time the real purpose is giving. The spirit of Christmas get into the blood and we become intoxicated with the desire and joy of giving. We love to see others happy at least once a year. We could stop it, surely.

Science has come forth with thousands of do's and don'ts since the Christmas giving started, and still none of them have ever advanced the idea that we should quit giving at Xmas time. It's a grand institution. Its a glorious feeling to get the thrill of doing just some little thing to make someone happy at least once a year. And we say thank God for Christmas.

Thieves in Calgary made a rather unique haul over the week-end when they broke into a tobacco stand and ripping open slot machines stole $340 in nickles. It would even be some job to count that many, wouldn't it.

A minor accident occurred at noon Tuesday, when the school kids were on their way home for lunch. D. L. Paxman was going down the street with a loaded Beet truck. He slowed up to let the kiddies cross, and most of them had done so. He started up again and just as he did so a little Antoi girl darted right in front of the truck and the front end of the truck hit her. It was feared that she was badly hurt, upon examination a rather severe bruise on each hip were the extent of the injuries. It was a very fortunate collision after all.

WEEKLY LETTER

SOME EMERGENCY MEASURES TO CONTROL SOIL DRIFTING IN WINTER

Soil drifting becomes an ever increasing menace throughout the Chinook belt with the dry open weather prevailing as this week's letter is being written, and the season of high wind velocities approaches. Some emergency measures for controlling soil drift problems applicable during the winter months should be of timely interest to farmers who may have fields that are in danger.

Many farmers, even in areas where drifting has been extremely serious, have developed preventive measures so effective that they seem to have drifting well under their control, but unfortunately a large number have not reached this happy condition and so emergency measures of checking drifting when it starts are needed.

Unnecessary working of the land is of course to be avoided because cultivating is actually a necessary evil where control of soil drifting must be a first concern. However, where drifting has started or the top soil is without trash covering and is nearly pulverized, some emergency measure of control can not be too strongly urged. Any field that started to drift last month is especially apt to need attention in order to avoid further trouble in the months ahead.

Listing or ridging is frequently used as a temporary means of checking soil drifting and while it is not always effective, especially in lighter soil, listing is advocated by many farmers. The usual method is to equip a duck-foot cultivator with small shovel ploughs, placing a plough on every third or fourth shank of the cultivator. The furrowing is done north and south or crosswise to the direction of the prevailing wind and deep enough to bring up two or three inches of unpulverized soil which form a lumpy protection at the top of the ridge. The object must be to bring up lumps from below and allow the loose top soil to sift down. Unless this is accomplished listing may do more harm than good.

Where the soil has started moving during the winter when too much frost may be present to permit the use of a cultivator drifting may often be checked by single disking the land, starting on the west side of the field. Parts of the field may be covered with snow drifts, water may be standing in low places, while the knolls are bare and drifting. Under these conditions the dry spots that are drifting are usually thawed out to a depth of one or two inches. A single stroke with the disc at this time usually roughens the surface and puddles the wet soil enough to control drifting excepting where the soil is too light or too sandy to puddle. A single disking is more effective than a double disking. The second time seems to pulverize the clods formed by the first stroke. Puddling with a drag harrow has been found effective in some cases.

Covering drifting fields with straw is another emergency of soil drifting control that deserves mention. This is practiced more extensively than many realize and in a few localities is quite common. One farmer reports that he spread straw over about seventy-five acres last month and that it required only three days with three men and two teams to do the work, when straw was spread over about two-thirds of the area. This when drifting starts on seeded fields and if the straw is spread on spots as they first begin to drift, it is often unnecessary to cover the entire field,

BILIOUSNESS

Biliousness is a word which holds its place in every-day language to describe a state of mental depression and physical discomfort, which is marked by headache, dizziness, a mouth which tastes badly, a feeling of nausea, weakness and depression, together with constipation.

The popular idea is that this unhappy state is due to what is called a "sluggish liver." This idea apparently comes from the fact that when the so called bilious person vomits—and he generally does—the contracting walls of the stomach draw up a small amount of bile. This small amount of bile is sufficient by its yellow colour and bitter taste to convince the patient that all his trouble arose from his liver which produces the bile.

The liver is a very reliable organ and it does its best, but sometimes the excess of food and drink, or failure to eliminate wastes from the body, may give rise to a condition with which the liver cannot cope and so it rebels. It is not the liver alone which protests, but other part of the digestive tract will join with it, producing that form of disorder which the public, if not the doctors, know as "biliousness."

The relationship of mental efficiency to bodily health is seen in the sad look and gloomy spirits of the victims of digestive upsets. The way to a man's heart may be through his stomach; certainly, the way to his good or ill humour is by way of his digestive tract.

The treatment is not by "liver pills" or purgatives, but thru the correction of faulty habits: this means simple food, outdoor exercise, plenty of sleep, and a free use of water between meals. Regular elimination can be secured by habit, diet and exercise.

Biliousness does not trouble those who lead a fairly simple life, who avoid excess of one kind and another, who pay reasonable attention to the requirements of their bodies, and who pay attention to their food and their elimination instead of taking medicines.

Some people think that they are born bilious, but in doing so they are only blaming their own carelessness with regard to their eating and other habits.

GET OFF THE BEATEN PATH, MR. MAN!

According to figures compiled by statistical expert, gleaned from the records of the past ten years, the average Xmas gift costs about five dollars; to be exact four dollars and forty five cents.

The amount arrived at is method is especially desirable therein lies a fallacy. Because by our own observation, it would work out, in this way: Given $8.90 to be spent by one man and one woman for gifts for each other, the man would probably spend $5 and the woman $3.90.

Not because men are more generous but because women are better shoppers.

POOR FORGOTTEN MALE
Somehow, the poor benighted male is utterly at a loss as to what to give, or what to spend.
The customary procedure for him is to wander into a store, furtively sneak around trying not to get in the way of active females, until he is corralled by someone with an instinctive love for helpless beasts and belings.

A few routine questions and soon Mr. Gift-giver finds himself minus $5 and plus a pink satin kimono, size 36—and we can picture his blank expression when the recipient informs him that she hates pink, and that she hasn't been able to get into a size 36 in the past eight years.

HOW TO CHOOSE

Pay attention, Mr. Gift-giver.
When you start casting about for a hint as to what the wife wants she will probably suggest a pair of portieres for the parlor, or maybe an aluminum kitchen set.

Don't believe her. She has her heart set on something very frilly, very sheer crepe de chine lingerie; or maybe a tiny vial of perfume. When you're buying a gift for her, make it hers alone.

If you want to get off the beaten path, try gloves, for day and evening wear. Initialed handkerchiefs and vanity cases have been known to rival silk hosiery and jewel boxes for favor.

And, well up on the lists, come instructible necklaces, handbags, writing sets, silk negligees, with mules to match, overnight bags and sweaters.

As for you, Mrs. Gift-giver or Miss Gift-giver—there is practically no problem at all. Give him a tie; the coloring doesn't matter. If you know how to say "Oh, I think you look very well in green"—or blue, or brown, as your choice may be he will cherish your gift.

The Alberta Motor Association are urging a surfaced highway running east and west across Alberta. The idea seems good, and along with the utilization of the vast deposits of tar sands near Fort McMurray to reduce the maintenance cost of our main and secondary highways.
Permanent improvement of our public highways can not be classed as extravagance.
